"Sharing the physical and emotional consequences of sex for more than a decade.."

A WORD FROM THE DIRECTOR

by Sarah Beth Simmons

The most recent mentality about sex that our society has adopted is that it's boundary-free and it's only a physical act. A new book called, "Hooked: New Science On How Casual Sex Is Affecting Our Children", discusses new research that gives way different evidence. The doctors describe "the purpose of this book is to demonstrate new neuro-scientific research – a wealth of new data suggesting that sex involves the entire person, physically, mentally, emotionally and in every other way." Too many times we focus on only the physical effects, STDs and pregnancy which don't need to be ignored but at the same time we forget about the mental and emotional outcomes which should bring about the same level of concern. Joe S. McIlhane, Jr. MD is the Founder and Chairman of the Medical Institute for Sexual Health and the author of Hooked. He and the co-author, Freda McKissic Bush, MD, did a great job of bringing the issue of sex and how it affects the brain, full circle.

PHYSICAL AND EMOTIONAL
